Litehouse Debut at Urban Nights

The Litehouse town home made its debut appearance May 16 during Urban Nights in Downtown Dayton. Although still in the construction phase, it was a great opportunity to showcase the Litehouse project to the public. An estimated 2,000 people toured the home.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held that afternoon prior to the start of Urban Nights. Speakers at event included Dayton Mayor Rhine McLin, Steve Budd, President CityWide Development Corporation, Sandy Gudorf, President Downtown Dayton Partnership, Eric Loudon, National City Vice President for Community Development, Amy Riegel from the City of Dayton's Department of Planning and Community Development, Jim Bowers, Deputy Mayor West Carrollton, Barry Buckman of RBA and Ken Botts of VMA. Various sponsor and partner representatives attended as well.

We thank all who attended this special event.
